

Jasmine Elise (Garden of Love Book 6)

Jasmine Elise: Garden of Love Series, Book Six On his cross-country flight home for Thanksgiving to see his son and daughters, Richard Matthews contemplates the idea of making some serious changes in his life. At the age of fifty-five with a well-padded bank account, retirement is certainly an option. Returning to his roots of being a local Northwest investor rather than traveling the country is also. But can he really do either? Does he have anything to come home to besides a big empty house and family members he loves dearly but feels too guilty to be around? As the weekend progresses, his fleeting thoughts seem to take on a mind of their own, and he finds himself thinking and saying things that could make it difficult to go back to business as usual. With a radical set of life-changing decisions turning his life upside-downor is that right-side-upRichard rides the whirlwind of change with love in his heart and a smile on his face. But can his new lease on life last, or will something unexpected and the mistakes of his past bring it all to a sobering and heartbreaking end? *Jasmine Elise is the sixth book in the Garden of Love series. This book is recommended for those who have read books two and three (Babys Breath and Wildflowers).
