There is no hope After separately witnessing the murders of her mother, father, and aunt, Grace Brennan has finally found an escape from the life she has tried running from for so long. She managed to sneak away with her true love and a baby on the way. But when a surprise visitor threatens her fairy tale, she has to make a decision. Does she keep hiding? Or does she find her way back home and end the threats once and for all? There is no happiness The only thing that couldve pulled Ryan Cassidy out of his now picture perfect life was his mother showing up at his front door, begging for his help. In order to keep Grace and their unborn child safe, he has to make the choice to fall back into the life he tried so hard to leave. But things are different this time. Hes respected, hes feared, hes damn good at his job and whats more, he has the love of a mother he hasnt seen in some twenty years.

There is no other way It was the life he wished he couldve had before meeting Grace. This is the only way to protect his new family from the life, from his uncle, from himself.
