MATCH ME Bonnie Nichols wasn't the kind of girl to crash a wedding. Or throw things. But somehow, she ends up doing both...at her ex-boyfriend's wedding. Bonnie has been in love with Chase Somers since elementary school and seeing him at the altar with the absolute wrong girl causes her to do the unthinkable: toss a shoe in his direction in order to try and stop it. But she doesn't count on the shoe knocking him out. Nor does she count on the entire church knowing it was her who did the throwing. The shoe doesn't stop the wedding, but it does make her the laughingstock of her town. As Bonnie copes with both the embarrassment of her actions and the loss of the boy she has always loved, her best friend Jill attempts to yank her out of her despair by pushing her to use Match Me, an online dating service. Despite her skepticism, Bonnie agrees to go on a few dates, dates that end up going comically bad. Convinced that she will be single forever, an unanticipated complication causes Bonnie to take stock of her life and the people around her. Was she really ever in love with Chase Somers? Or was loving him simply the easy thing to do? Crashing the wedding and throwing that shoe just may end up being the smartest thing she's ever done.

LOVE ME For Jill Wegman, there's just one thing standing in the way of finishing law school. Her fabulous boyfriend, Domenico. Despite her best friend's objections, she decides to end the relationship so she can stay focused on her studies. Her best friend, Bonnie, has other ideas, though, and concocts a scheme to throw the two back together so Jill can see just what she's giving up. Tricked into going on an impromptu vacation, Jill is forced to spend time with her ex-boyfriend, who is still reeling and angry from the unexpected break up. When she finds herself with no money and no phone, and her ex as her only companion, Jill is forced to consider why she's willing to give up a guy most women would beg for. Is she being honest with herself? Or is there something else, something that's haunted her for longer than she cares to admit, that is now threatening her own happiness? Will Jill stick to her guns and focus on law school? Or will she take a chance on Domenico and on love?
